“ My Life's Companion for 52 years is gone. She was my counselor, my joy, and my stabilizer.

She is irreplaceable.

I know she rests with Our Lord, and her passing has guided me to do whatever I can to spend the rest of eternity in her presence.

It's been a difficult year since she left us. Our Daughter Jen has made a heroic sacrifice to be here in our home and to pick up the reins from where Celia left them. I am indebted to both Celia and Jen for making my life so memorable and as joyful as it has been. We continue to walk in Celia's footsteps, and those still take us to the right places.

Our Grandchildren have always been her central benefactors, and I try to keep that so. What I can do, I do; as she would want. I hope she smiles as she observes the bunch of us; because doing what we do has always been done for Grammie.

I love her as much as ever, and miss her unbearably. But we must bear, children and descendants are involved.

I know she loved me, we were both constantly expressing our love for each other, so there could be no misunderstanding on that subject. Every time we spoke, I finished my side of the conversation with "I Love You". I did get to tell her goodbye as we were leaving the hospital on our last visit.

She had suffered for years with her liver ailment, but when she went; that was quite fast. She called herself an ambulance on Thursday, seemed a bit distant that following Saturday, was incoherent on Sunday, and passed into God's arms very early Tuesday morning. She did not suffer.

We are diminished...
