“ Not so much by choice, as by birth, I have been in agriculture all of my life. This translates into just about anything folks want to make it, but, indeed, cowboys are part of that picture. Jim Todd was all of that cowboy persona & so much more---patriotic, noble, a man of God, brave, courage-ous, devoted, quiet, wise parent/grandparent, loyal friend, rugged good looks, loving husband/father/brother. Jim completed/finished my personal education about "real" cowboys. There is no qualifying for earning such an honorable title if you drive up to the gate of a fenced 300-400 acre pasture & call your cattle, your cows, the herd---& you didn't even get out of the pickup.. "Real" cowboys mount an ornery horse in all kinds of weather before sunrise, ride all day 'til sunset, & between those two magnificent celestial events all by themselves they rope cattle, brand cattle, deliver calves, fight off predators, take head counts, nurse sick cattle, & so much more with plans to do the very same thing tomorrow. Jim was the real deal, a real cowboy. It was such an honor & pleasure for Wanda & me to know him. God has a new trail boss now. We miss you, Jim. We love you, Pat & family.
