

Joan Louise Aabye

July 9, 1951 - May 16, 2024

Joan Louise Aabye, 72, died peacefully in her sleep at her home in Elfrida, AZ on May 16, 2024.

Joan was born in Milwaukee, WI in 1951 to Harold and Betty Garbisch. She was preceded in death by her husband of 23 years, William Howard Aabye and never remarried. She is survived by her children Lisa Brown of Tucson, AZ, Michael (Lisa) Aabye of Elfrida, AZ, Amy (Jason) Robertson of Glenwood, NM and Andrew (Christie) Aabye of Cochise, AZ, 15 grandchildren and one great grandson.

In 1985, Bill and Joan packed up the family and moved from the green, rolling hills of Wisconsin to sunny, dry and brown Elfrida. Needless to say, the move was a bit of a culture shock for the family ~ everyone always laughed because the journey into Arizona happened on April Fool's Day. But Joan grew to love the desert Southwest and made Elfrida her home for nearly 40 years.

She is remembered for her countless years cooking at A Family Restaurant before her retirement. You may recall her greeting of "Hey, Butts" or something a tad more colorful upon entering the restaurant. She enjoyed working there immensely and thought of everyone as extended family.

She taught her children to be independent and loved nothing more than to spend time with her grandchildren. May Joan rest in peace in the loving arms of God.

A celebration of life will be held at 11am on June 1st at First Southern Baptist Church @ 4151 W. Sycamore Lane, Elfrida, AZ. Please join the family after the service for a potluck meal. Her ashes will be buried at the Whitewater Cemetery alongside her husband, Bill.

“ My condolences to Joan’s children and siblings. It’s been many years since seeing Joan, but I’ll always remember her as a warm-hearted woman with a ready smile for me. Despite my fiery childhood, Joan had a way of looking past the noise and see something good. Thank you, Joan. God’s blessings on you.

I wish I had the opportunity to know your mom Lisa. Sounds like you took after her in the cooking department. It is hard to loose a parent. She will always be with you in your heart.
