“ John loved to tinker. Ever since he was young, he loved to take things apart and then put them back together again. Sometimes there were leftover pieces. Oops.....

“Dad was always an outdoor person despite his physical limitations. 2 years ago I took him to visit all the local state parks and we fished where we could. He actually thanked me for bringing him to see the Gila river.

I remember when this picture was taken. I was standing beside the photographer watching my three older siblings get ready. It appeared in the local paper. A cute picture for such.

Diane, John and I did this every year for a few years on the first day of fishing season. We would get up even before the sun came up to locate some worms. We never did catch anything but it was fun.
