“ Karen Poppe was one of the most remarkable persons I have ever met. What a champion for women and their families! She was an astute nurse with a passion for the promotion of women's health. While working for the Department of Health in South Dakota she touched many lives (and literally SAVED a few lives along the way). I will never forget a photo that she kept displayed in her office It was of a turn of the century woman splitting logs with an axe. The caption said, "Woman, your name is frailty."

That exemplified Karen and her strength and passion to be the strong advocate for other women. She inspired me. I am heart broken for her family to have lost such a wonderful person. Marcia Benning
