“ My husband and I will always remember his sense of humor and the great and hilarious stories he told. Stories about horses cattle and the people around them, life stories. His tales would bring tears of laughter to our eyes. I'm sure he probably told some pretty funny ones about us learning how to deal with western cattle. He was and in our hearts still is, a good friend. We will miss him now and hope to meet him again.

“ From riding horses to fishing and having contest who could catch the most fish, he was always teaching his little sister on the how to do things better. He took me hunting mostly to carry what he shot. He was 4 years older than me and I looked up to him. He drove me to school and let me hang out with his friends. He was talented, his paintings and drawings, he worked hard when he was young, taking his painting classes. He put me on a lot of his green broke horses, sending me out to run the barrels, never knowing he had just broke the horse. Rest In Peace Brother, you are missed!
