“ My memories of Royce go back to 1962 when I was a twenty-two year old graduate student at LSU researching the butterflies of Los Tuxtlas in Veracruz, Mexico. At the time I met the Lind family by accident on an excursion into Ocotal Chico--a tiny village of the indigenous Popoluca culture nestled on one of the pine-clad ridges of the dormant volcano Santa Marta. That casual encounter set into motion a lifelong relationship with Royce and her family. How saddened I am to hear of the passing of such a dear friend! Although I physically cannot be present with the Lind family for the memorial service, my mind and soul will surely be in attendance. May this image of one of God's most beautiful and symbolic creations, a glasswing butterfly from Ocotal Chico, offer some peace to the Linds during this stressful time. I am confident that the soul of Royce now is flying on gossamer wings in union with that of her deceased husband, John. Gary Noel Ross (Baton Rouge, LA).
